THE STEVEN A. COHEN MILITARY FAMILY CLINIC OPERATED BY HOPE FOR THE WARRIORS OFFICIALLY OPENS VIRTUALLY
Jacksonville Mental Health Clinic Ready to Serve Post-9/11 Veterans and Military Families

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (Nov. 11 2020) – Cohen Veterans Network (CVN) is proud to announce the opening of The Steven A. Cohen Military Family Clinic at Hope For The Warriors, which is now offering virtual mental health services for post-9/11 veterans and military families.

CVN is partnering with Hope For The Warriors to open and operate the 5,300-square-foot Henderson Drive clinic, which is currently undergoing renovations. While under construction, clients are receiving treatment through CVN Telehealth, a face-to-face video therapy where clients receive treatment from the privacy and comfort of their homes. The physical location is slated to open in spring 2021 and located at 3245 Henderson Drive.

The clinic offers brief, evidenced-based, client-centered therapy for a variety of mental health issues, including depression, anxiety, post-traumatic stress, adjustment issues, anger, grief and loss, family issues, transition challenges, relationship problems, and children's behavioral problems. Services are available regardless of discharge status, role in uniform, combat experience, ability to pay or insurance.

In addition to providing care to those within reach of the Jacksonville location, the new Cohen Clinic will work with the existing Cohen Clinic in Fayetteville, N.C., to offer telehealth services to up to 100,000 potential clients across N.C.

“We are very pleased to expand on the mental health services being offered in the Jacksonville area,” said CVN President & CEO Dr. Anthony Hassan. “We also are here to serve the military family, as we know the stresses of service impact the entire family unit and not just those in uniform. Across our network of clinics, family members are roughly half of our client population and we expect to see a large number of families in this new location.”

Joining the Cohen Clinic at Hope For The Warriors as clinic director is Beverly King, LCMHCS, CCTP. King has over 15 years of experience running mental health clinics and organizations. King has a master's degree in counseling psychology from Radford University and a bachelor's in psychology from Appalachian State University. She is a licensed clinical mental health counselor supervisor and a certified clinical trauma professional.

“Hope For The Warriors is deeply rooted in the Jacksonville community,” said Robin Kelleher President and CEO of Hope For The Warriors. “We were founded aboard Camp Lejeune in 2006, and even though we've expanded our presence nationally and virtually, we've never wavered in serving the warrior community in our home base. This partnership with Cohen Veterans Network allows us to deepen our impact in North Carolina and combine resources that will result in life-transforming mental health support for the area's veterans and their families.”

Cohen Veterans Network currently has 19 clinics in operation across the country and plans to have 25 clinics by the end of 2021.
