Cohen Veterans Network Announces Support from American Airlines

Partnership made possible through AAdvantage® Miles donations from American Airlines customers

STAMFORD, Conn., October 7, 2025 – Cohen Veterans Network (CVN), a national not-for-profit network of mental health clinics for post-9/11 veterans, service members, and their families, today announced new support from American Airlines. Thanks to the generosity of American Airlines customers who donate unused AAdvantage® miles through the Miles for Our Heroes program, CVN staff will be able to travel to the network's 22 clinics nationwide, ensuring continued care for veterans, active duty service members, and their families.

"We are grateful to American Airlines and their customers for their generous support," said Dr. Anthony Hassan, president & CEO of Cohen Veterans Network. "Their contributions help us advance our mission to provide high-quality, accessible mental health care to veterans, service members, and their families. With their help, we can ensure military families receive the care they need and deserve."

American Airlines has a long history of honoring and supporting those who have committed their lives to serving in the United States Armed Forces. They do this by sponsoring various military nonprofit organizations and utilizing their fleet of aircraft for special missions.

Since 2016, CVN has provided care to nearly 90,000 clients in over 800,000 clinical sessions. CVN addresses a range of mental health concerns, including depression, anxiety, military transition challenges, adjustment issues, PTSD, anger, grief and loss, family issues, relationship challenges, and children's behavioral problems. Care is available through the network's 22 Cohen Clinics serving 20 states in-person and via CVN Telehealth, face-to-face video therapy.
